Dear FCC,
I currently live in Los Angeles, but it might as well be Las Vegas with the gamble I take every morning when I head to work on I-405. Prior to XM Instant Traffic & Weather, my only source of instant information was sigalert.com and weather.com. The local radio stations are too unpredictable when it comes to getting the information I need in a timely manner. It does me no good to find out I-405 is a parking lot after I've been parked in it for 15 minutes! The internet websites are great...if I remember to check and have enough time to boot up the computer, check the two websites, and turn it off again. With XM Instant Traffic & Weather, I can hop in my truck, turn in to my preset "Los Angeles" channel, and learn everything I need to know before I get anywhere near the on-ramp for the freeway. That, my friends is an invaluable service. Please don't take it away. Please reject the NAB's petition 04-160. Thank you.
